

FUND MANAGER'S REPORT

F E B R U A R Y 2 0 2 6

RSA Fund I Snapshot

Fund Summary

- RSA Fund I is the most aggressive among the different RSA funds in terms of risk and potential returns, it is structured to have a higher allocation towards variable income securities, primarily equities.
- This fund typically invests a significant portion of its assets in the Nigerian stock market and other high-risk, high-return instruments.
- It is an optional fund that contributors must elect to opt to, with a maximum age of membership being 49 years old.

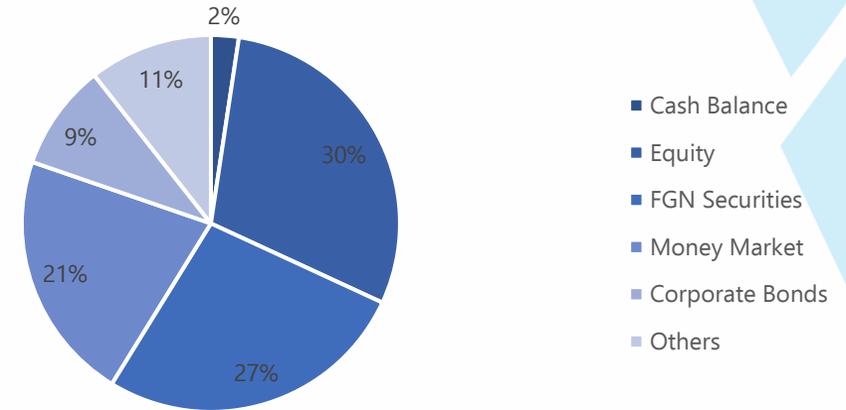

Risk Profile

- It carries the highest risk among the RSA funds due to its heavy exposure to equities and variable income securities. Equities are known for their volatility and can experience significant fluctuations in value over the short term. Therefore, RSA Fund I holders are exposed to market fluctuations and may experience higher volatility in their investment returns.

Return Expectations

- Due to its aggressive investment strategy, RSA Fund I has the potential to offer higher returns compared to the other RSA funds over the long term. However, these returns come with higher volatility and risk, meaning there could be periods of substantial gains but also periods of significant losses

RSA Fund I Asset Allocation

3-Year CAGR: 28.01%

Sharpe Ratio: 1.30

RSA Fund II Snapshot

Fund Summary

- RSA Fund II is the default RSA Fund and is a moderate-risk fund that strikes a balance between risk and potential returns.
- It is structured with a mixed portfolio, investing in a combination of variable income securities (such as equities) and fixed income securities (such as bonds).
- The fund's allocation typically includes a balanced mix of these asset classes, aiming to achieve moderate growth while maintaining a degree of stability.
- RSA Fund II offers a middle ground for contributors who want a balanced approach to investing, seeking growth opportunities while mitigating some of the risks associated with higher exposure to equities.

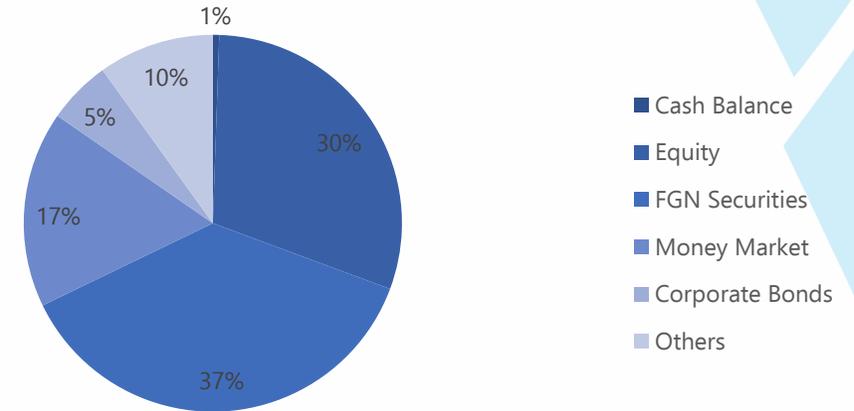

Risk Profile

- Fund II carries a moderate risk profile. The blend of equities and fixed income securities is designed to moderate volatility while seeking reasonable returns. The risk level is lower than Fund I due to its diversification but higher than the more conservative Fund III.

Return Expectations

- RSA Fund II aims for moderate growth, offering a balance between potential returns and stability. While it may not deliver as high returns as Fund I over the long term, it seeks to provide more consistent and stable growth.

RSA Fund II Asset Allocation

3-Year CAGR: 21.46%

Sharpe Ratio: 0.62

RSA Fund III Snapshot

Fund Summary

- RSA Fund III focuses on a more conservative investment approach compared to Fund II. It is primarily invested in fixed income securities such as bonds, treasury bills, and other relatively low-risk, fixed-income instruments.
- However, it also includes a smaller portion allocated to variable income securities like equities and designed to cater to contributors with about 10 years or less to retirement with the default age being 50 years old.
- RSA Fund III offers a more conservative investment option within the multi-fund structure, catering to contributors who prioritize stability and capital preservation over higher growth potential.

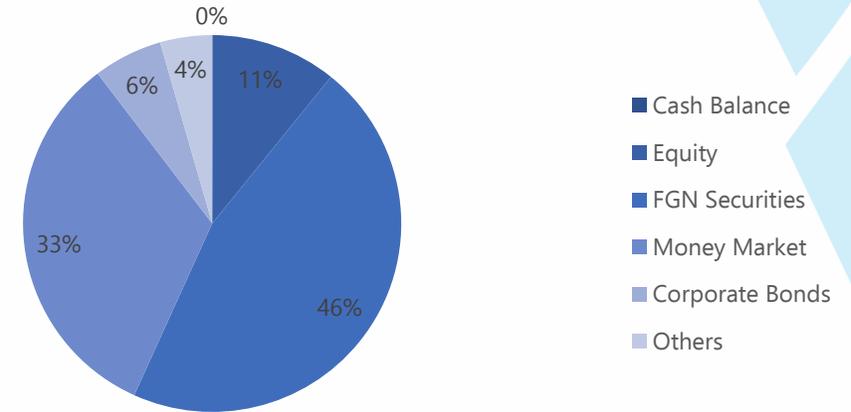

Risk Profile

- This fund is less exposed to market volatility and fluctuations compared to Fund I and Fund II due to its higher allocation to fixed income securities. The presence of some variable income securities introduces a modest level of risk but significantly reduces volatility compared to more aggressive funds.

Return Expectations

- RSA Fund III aims to provide relatively stable and steady returns. While the potential for high returns is lower compared to the more aggressive Funds I & II, it seeks to offer a higher level of capital preservation and stability over the long term.

RSA Fund III Asset Allocation

3-Year CAGR: 16.82%

Sharpe Ratio: -0.17

RSA Fund IV Snapshot

Financial Market Review & Outlook

Fixed Income Review

- In February, interest rates declined across most money market segments amid accommodative monetary policy and improved financial system liquidity.
- The Monetary Policy Committee cut the Monetary Policy Rate (MPR) by 50 basis points to 26.50%. The decision followed continued disinflationary trends and relative stability in the foreign exchange market. Headline inflation remained contained at 15.10% in January 2026, unchanged from December 2025, reinforcing the Committee's confidence in price stability.
- Financial system liquidity also rose by 22.01% m/m to N2.94 trillion; driven partly by an increase in average Standing Deposit Facility (SDF) position, rising by 15.31% m/m to N2.88 trillion. Against this backdrop of improved liquidity and a lower policy rate, the secondary Treasury bills market witnessed renewed bullish sentiment, resulting in a 113-bps m/m decline in the average yield to 17.23%. Similarly, Federal Government bond yields moderated by 94 bps to 15.54%, as investors took advantage of relatively elevated yields on longer-dated instruments amid expectations of a declining interest rate environment.

Fixed Income Outlook

- Given near-term inflation risks on account of the recent spike in global crude oil prices, fixed-income yields may come under upward pressure in the near term, with Federal Government of Nigeria Bonds trending above 16% and Nigerian Treasury Bills above 18% until the risks abate.

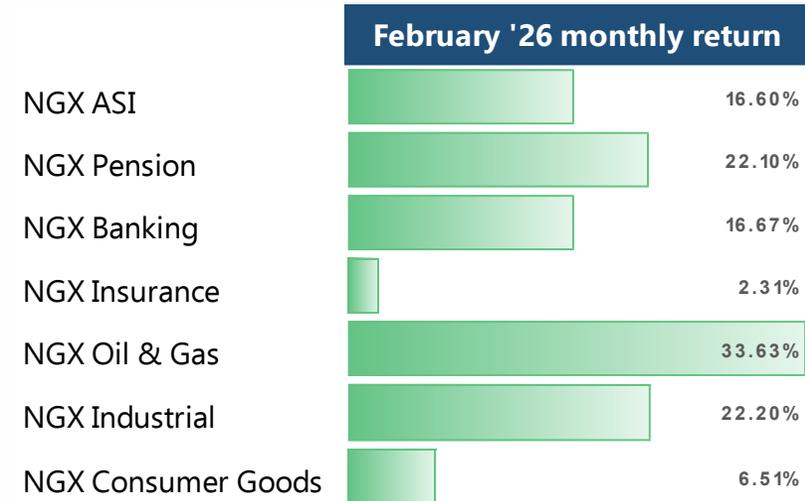

Financial Market Review & Outlook

Equities Market Review

- In line with our expectation of a positive equities market performance in February 2026, bullish sentiment was sustained during the month. Consequently, the Nigerian Exchange All Share Index (NGX ASI) advanced by 16.60% m/m to 192,826.75 points, while market capitalization expanded by 16.59% to N123,763.12 trillion.
- Market breadth was significant, howbeit narrower, as the local bourse recorded 84 gainers (down from 100 in January) against 34 losers (up from 15 in January). The strong performance was largely driven by price appreciation across Oil & Gas, Industrial, and Banking sectors.
- Among the top-performing stocks were Fortis Global Insurance (+370.00%), Infinity Trust Mortgage Bank (+111.11%), and Union Dicon Salt (+89.71%). Conversely, notable decliners during the period included Sovereign Trust Insurance (-37.04%), Tripple Gee & Company (-35.12%), and Mecure Industries (-27.07%).

Equities Market Outlook

- We maintain a positive outlook for the equities market, underpinned by expectations of improved real sector activity, the release of strong corporate earnings, and attractive corporate actions.
